IRVINGTON POSTDOCTORAL FELLOWSHIPS
Cancer Research Institute

Description:
The Cancer Research Institute invites applications for the Irvington postdoctoral fellowships. These support young scientists at leading universities and research centres around the world who wish to receive training in cancer immunology. Projects should be hypothesis driven, mechanistic studies in both immunology and tumour immunology that directly impact understanding of the immune system’s role in cancer risk, tumour initiation, progression, metastasis, host response to tumours or the treatment of cancer.

Applicants must have a doctoral degree and up to five years of relevant postdoctoral experience, with the exception of MD applicants, who should not include years of residency in this calculation. Applications should include a sponsor who holds a formal appointment at the host institution, which should be a non-profit institution anywhere in the world. Only one fellow per sponsor may apply per application round.

Fellowships are worth up to US$164,500 over three years. This includes a stipend of US$50,000 for the first year, US$53,000 for the second year and US$57,000 for the third year plus an annual allowance of US$1,500 to the host institution to help pay for the fellow’s research supplies, travel to scientific meetings or health insurance.

Closing date: 01 Apr 16
Deadline information: Applications due by 5pm EST. Deadlines on: 1 April 2016, 1 October 2016, and repeated annually.

POSTDOCTORAL PROGRAMME
International Institute for Applied Systems Analysis

Description:
The International Institute for Applied Systems Analysis invites applications to its postdoctoral programme. This enables scholars to conduct their own research in collaboration with one or more of IIASAs research programmes or special projects.

Candidates should have their PhD at the time of taking up the appointment and are expected to have a proven record of research accomplishments, and a solid working knowledge of English. Preference will be given to applicants who are nationals of countries where IIASA has a national member organisation and who have held a doctoral degree for less than five years at the application deadline.

The typical period for IIASA-funded postdoctoral support is one to two years.

STANDARD SHORT-TERM FELLOWSHIP
European Respiratory Society

Description:
The European Respiratory Society invites applications for its standard short-term fellowship. This enables young scientists and clinicians in the early stages of their research career in respiratory medicine to visit a host unit in a European country other than the candidate’s own, with the aim of learning a research technique not available in their home unit. It aims to foster knowledge and collaboration between units in different countries.

Candidates should be ERS members of any nationality and be scientists, physicians or qualified allied health professionals with MD, MSc, PhD or MD-PhD qualifications related to the respiratory field. Priority is given to candidates in the early stages of their career. A return to the home unit is mandatory upon fellowship completion.

Fellowships are tenable for between one and three months and encompass a living stipend, child allowance and a travel grant of varying value depending on where the candidate is from and to which European country they are going.

Closing date: 01 Apr 16
Deadline information: Deadlines on: 1 April 2016, 1 October 2016, and repeated annually.

Description:
The Scoliosis Research Society invites applications for a small exploratory grant. This grant is designed specifically for new investigators who have a preliminary concept they would like to develop into a research project. Applicants do not need to be members of the society to apply. The society has identified the following areas as important research topics:
• evidence based medicine;
• idiopathic scoliosis;
• aetiology;
• non-op and operative treatment;
• 3D deformity of the spine and thorax;
• adult deformity;
• treatment and outcomes;
• osteoporosis, in particular osteoporotic spine fractures, its impact on scoliosis kyphosis management, and how it relates to spinal deformity and instrumentation;
• early onset scoliosis treatment;
• sagittal imbalance;
• congenital scoliosis;
• neuromuscular spinal deformity;
• deformity and reconstruction arising from spine and sacral tumour treatment;
• thoracic insufficiency associated with spinal deformity in children;
• pulmonary outcome sequellae following common natural history of spine deformity and treatment history.

The maximum grant award for this category is US$10,000. The maximum duration of research is one year.

Closing date: 01 Apr 16

physics in an industrial setting. The purpose of the prize is to recognise excellence in the industrial application of physics, and thereby to publicize the value of physics in industry, to encourage physics research in industry, and to enhance students' awareness of and interest in the role of physics in commercial product development.

The prize will be awarded for innovative, leading-edge applications of physics to emerging technologies. It is not necessary for the application to have already achieved commercial success, but it should have demonstrated potential for significant impact. Although nominees need not now be working in industry, the contribution for which they are cited must have been made while their principal employment was in industry. The recognised contribution may be a product, a process, or a tool enabling practical application of physics. Nominees need not be APS members, and there is no restriction with regard to geography or nationality.

The prize consists of US$10,000 and a certificate citing the contribution for which the prize was awarded. In addition, an allowance is made for the expenses incurred by the recipients to attend the APS meeting at which the prize is presented.

NZYME ASSAY SCIENTIST AWARD
Novozymes

Description:
Novozymes invites applications for its enzyme assay scientist award. This recognises a student or postdoc for the development of an outstanding enzyme activity or performance assay for screening of one of the following enzyme classes: amylases, cellulases, lipases, phytases, proteases, oxidoreductases or glycosyltransferases. The aim of the award is to boost the general assay awareness and interest and reward good assay ideas developed by young scientists.

The assay should have been published within the last two years or have an expected publish date. The assay has to be novel and it is expected that it has high-throughput potential and correlates to a real-world enzyme application.

The award is worth €5,000 plus travel and accommodation costs.

PULMONARY ARTERIAL HYPERTENSION SHORT-TERM FELLOWSHIP
European Respiratory Society

Description:
The European Respiratory Society, with support from GlaxoSmithKline, invites applications for its pulmonary arterial hypertension short-term fellowship. This supports research projects in the broad field of pulmonary circulation, such as immunology, cardiology and vascular diseases.

Applicants should be ERS members of any nationality and be based in Europe or overseas, going to another country in Europe to carry out the research project. They must hold an MD, MSc, PhD or equivalent qualification in respiratory medicine or science, pulmonary arterial hypertension, immunology, biology, genetics, pharmacology, biophysics or chemistry. Qualified healthcare professionals who are non-MD working in the pulmonary arterial hypertension respiratory field may also apply. Support is given to basic science, clinical and translational research, with priority given to the latter two. Priority is also given to candidates in the early stages of their career. A return to the home unit is mandatory upon fellowship completion.

Fellowships are tenable for between one and three months and encompass a living stipend, child allowance and a travel grant of varying value depending on where the candidate is from and to which country they are going.

RESEARCH TRAINING FELLOWSHIPS
Wellcome Trust

Description:
The Wellcome Trust invites applications for its research training fellowships. These support medical, dental, veterinary or clinical psychology graduates who wish to develop a long-term career in academic medicine. The scheme enables individuals to undertake substantial training towards a PhD or MD qualification through high-quality research in an appropriate unit or clinical research facility.

Applicants must have a relevant connection to the European Economic Area and should not normally be more than 10 years from the date of their first medical, dental or veterinary qualification. They should have completed general professional training as defined by the relevant college in their field. Sponsoring laboratories must be based in an eligible NHS or academic institution in the UK or Republic of Ireland, and sponsors must have a contract of employment within an academic institution, or an honorary academic appointment in the case of an NHS employee. Non-UK applicants should contact the trust prior to application. Research projects should normally be undertaken in the UK or RoI, in which fellows may request to spend up to three months overseas. However, for candidates who are carrying out research in public health and tropical medicine in a developing country location, the duration of the fellowship may be spent overseas.

Fellowships normally provide a salary and research expenses for a period of two to three years. In exceptional cases a fellowship may be tenable for up to four years for those who wish to undertake relevant master’s training or a diploma course. Candidates who wish to pursue research in epidemiology or bioinformatics, and need to undertake a diploma in tropical medicine and hygiene or a master’s degree as an essential entry point, may be considered for an extra year’s funding and course fees.

Closing date: 04 Apr 16

Senior Clinical Fellowship
Medical Research Council

Description:
The Medical Research Council invites applications for its senior clinical fellowship. This enables medically and other clinically qualified professionals, with an effective track record of internationally competitive independent research, to make the transition to research leadership. Applications are welcome across all areas of MRC’s remit and may range from basic studies with relevance to mechanisms of disease, to translational and developmental clinical research.

MRC is also offering awards under this scheme in collaboration with the Motor Neuron Disease Association, named Lady Edith Wolfson fellowships. These awards enable clinicians to pursue research into the pathogenesis and treatment of motor neurone disease, and they offer co-funding for fellowships, as well as the opportunity for the fellow to report on their project and present their work at meetings.

Hospital doctors, dentists, general practitioners, nurses, midwives and members of the allied health professions, may apply. Veterinarians may apply where they have equivalent qualifications and their project is of relevance to human health. Applicants should hold a PhD or equivalent and have at least five years’ relevant postdoctoral research experience at the time of application.

Fellowships are not available to individuals who hold a tenured academic position. Applicants are encouraged to establish collaborative networks and cross-sector development as the council may support a period of research overseas, at a second UK institution or within industry where appropriate. In addition, applicants should demonstrate that their skills and experience match those of the transition to leadership career stage at the time of their application.

Fellowships are tenable for five years and cover salary costs, support for research staff, consumable expenses, travel costs and capital equipment appropriate for the research project. There is no limit for funding.

Closing date: 06 Apr 16
Deadline information: Applications due by 4pm.

LINICIAN SCIENTIST FELLOWSHIP
Medical Research Council

Description:
The Medical Research Council invites proposals for its clinician scientist fellowship. This supports medically and other clinically qualified professionals who have gained a higher research degree to lead their own research plans and establish their own research team, and to make the transition to independent investigator.

Proposals are welcome across all areas of the research council’s remit, and they may range from basic studies with relevance to mechanisms of disease, to translational and developmental clinical research. MRC is also offering the following two jointly funded schemes:

- Motor Neurone Disease Association Lady Edith Wolfson fellowships, enabling clinicians to pursue research into the pathogenesis and treatment of motor neurone disease;
- Kidney Research UK Professor David Kerr clinician scientist award, enabling clinicians who have already attained a higher degree to pursue further research into kidney disease.

Hospital doctors, dentists, general practitioners, nurses, midwives and members of the allied health professions, may apply. Veterinarians may apply where they have equivalent qualifications and providing their project is of relevance to human health. Applicants must have obtained a PhD or equivalent, or expect to do so by the time they take up the award.

Medical or dental graduates should be of specialty registrar or consultant status, or be at the equivalent level in general practice. Nurses, midwives and other allied health professionals must have completed their professional training. Fellowships are not available to individuals who hold a tenured academic position. In addition, applicants are encouraged to establish collaborative networks and cross-sector development, as the award supports a period of research overseas, at a second UK institution or within industry where appropriate.
There is no limit for funding. Fellowships cover salary costs, support for research staff, consumables, travel costs and capital equipment appropriate for the research project. Fellowships are tenable for four years, with a further year’s funding available for patient-oriented clinician scientist fellowships where the project requires significant amounts of patient contact.

Closing date: 06 Apr 16
Deadline information: Proposals due by 4pm.

ORMAN E BORLAUG LEADERSHIP ENHANCEMENT IN AGRICULTURE PROGRAMME
Agency for International Development (USAID)

Description:
The University of California at Davis and the US Agency for International Development invite applications for the Norman E Borlaug leadership enhancement in agriculture programme. This aims to enhance the quality of thesis research of graduate students from sub-Saharan Africa who show strong promise as leaders in the field of agriculture and related disciplines. The programme supports research on all topics related to the US government’s global hunger and food security initiative, Feed the Future, although emphasis is placed on work of relevance to the national development of the student’s home country. Internships are tenable for up to 12 months and may be held at a US graduate-level university, a Consultative Group on International Agricultural Research centre, or a combination of appropriate institutions.

Citizens of USAID-assisted countries in sub-Saharan Africa, who are currently enrolled as a master’s or PhD student at a US or sub-Saharan university, may apply. Applicants must have completed at least one year of graduate-level coursework in the programme in which they are enrolled and be fluent in reading, writing and speaking English.

Funding supports a variety of research needs, such as travel to the research site, research support at the host institute and US faculty member travel to the research site for mentoring purposes. Funds may not be used for tuition fees or salaries. Grants are worth up to US$20,000 each.

Closing date: 06 Apr 16

NOWLEDGE FOR TOMORROW – COOPERATIVE RESEARCH PROJECTS IN SUB-SAHRAN AFRICA: JUNIOR FELLOWSHIPS
VolkswagenStiftung – Volkswagen Foundation

Description:
The Volkswagen Foundation invites applications for its knowledge for tomorrow – cooperative research projects in Sub-Saharan Africa: junior fellowships call. This provides promising postdoctoral researchers based in Africa with opportunities to enhance both their skills and academic qualifications by conducting research in collaboration with a German scholar.

Proposed projects should be interdisciplinary and have a strong reference to questions and problems concerning respective regions or Africa as a continent. Research projects should deal with the question of how individual or collective social actors can manage and protect resources efficiently and develop sustainable livelihood strategies under present social and environmental conditions and in view of locally and globally changing circumstances.

Applicants must be based in, or wish to return to, sub-Saharan countries and have less than three years of postdoctoral experience. The PhD must be completed by February 2017. Projects must be carried out in cooperation with a partner institution in Germany.

The fellowship is awarded for up to three years and covers salary, consumables, equipment, travel and administrative costs of up to €110,000. In addition to that, the candidate may apply for up to €5,000 for the German partner, up to €15,000 for an additional lecturer at the African host institution, up to €30,000 for the postdoctoral fellow based in Germany, €10,000 for a mentorship programme and €4,000 to be used for a preparatory meeting with the German partner.

Closing date: 06 Apr 16
Deadline information: Pre-possals due by 6 April; full invited proposals due by late October 2016.

IR HENRY DALE FELLOWSHIPS
Wellcome Trust

Description:
The Wellcome Trust and the Royal Society invite applications for the Sir Henry Dale fellowships. These enable postdoctoral scientists who wish to build their own UK-based independent research career to address an important biomedical question. Research may range from the molecules and cells vital to life and their role in the global spread of disease, to clinical and public-health research seeking to improve the quality of healthcare. It can be based in the laboratory, clinic or field, and may involve experimental or theoretical approaches.

Applicants are expected to have relevant scientific or mathematical qualifications and be no more than seven years from the date of receiving their PhD. They must be:

- a UK or EEA national;
- a non-EEA national who either has a relevant degree from a UK university, or has worked in the UK for at least a continuous three-year period;
- an exceptional biomedical scientist who does not fall within the categories above and whose recruitment to the host organisation would be advantageous to both the applicant and the organisation.

Application form:

FIRST ARTICLE PRIZES
Columbia University

Description:
The Council for European Studies at Columbia University invites nominations for its European studies first article prizes. Two prizes will be awarded, one to a scholar working in the humanities and one working in the social sciences. These will honour the writers of the best first articles on European studies published within a two-year period.

Each nominated article must meet the following criteria:

• be the first article published by the nominee in the field of European studies in a peer-reviewed journal;
• be published between 1 January 2012 and 31 December 2013;
• be the work of one author only or be an article on which the nominee is the first author;
• be authored by a member of the Council for European Studies or a faculty or student of an institution that is a member.

Nominations may be submitted by the publisher, editor, author or colleagues. Strong preference will be given to submissions in English, French, German and Spanish.

Each winner will receive US$500.

Radiation Science and Technology Award
American Nuclear Society

Description:
The American Nuclear Society invites applications for its radiation science and technology award. This award recognises outstanding creative applications of radiation sciences and engineering principles. Qualification is based on meritorious scientific and engineering achievement that has important implications for radiation science and technology. The work may have been performed at any time in the past, but the findings must have been reported in peer-reviewed scientific journals. Also the feasibility of industrial application must have been established although the work need not be in widespread use at the time of the award.

Any member of the ANS can nominate a candidate, who does not have to be an ANS member. The recipient will receive an engraved plaque and a US$2,000 monetary award.

FELLOWSHIPS FOR NON-DUTCH SCHOLARS

Netherlands Institute for Advanced Study in the Humanities and Social Sciences

Description:
The Netherlands Institute for Advanced Study in the Humanities and Social Sciences (NIAS) invites applications for its fellowships for non-Dutch scholars. These enable prominent researchers and senior scholars in the humanities and social sciences to undertake research at the institute.

Applicants should have at least three years of postdoctoral academic experience and they should already have made a contribution to their field. The applicants' achievements and the added value of the proposed project for the Dutch scientific community are given special consideration in the evaluation process. Applications by former NIAS fellows and scholars at the end of their career are given low priority.

Fellows receive an office at the institute and a studio or family apartment at a subsidised rate. Travel costs for relocating to the NIAS may be reimbursed, and a stipend may be available if the fellow’s home institution cannot cover the fellow’s salary for the duration of the stay at NIAS.

Stipends range from €2,600 to €3,800 per month over a period of up to one academic year.

THEME GROUP FELLOWSHIPS
Netherlands Institute for Advanced Study in the Humanities and Social Sciences

Description:
The Netherlands Institute for Advanced Study in the Humanities and Social Sciences (NIAS) invites applications for its theme group fellowships. These aim to bring together scholars of different backgrounds with specific expertise to work together on a daily basis, to advance knowledge on a particular theme within the social sciences and humanities.

The aim of the theme group is to produce a concrete result such as a book, scientific paper or conference.

Each NIAS research theme group is composed of up to six scholars, half of them from the Netherlands, the other half from other countries, working both individually and as a team on a clearly defined research topic.

The following criteria are considered of importance:

• the academic status of the applicant within the research field in question;
• the originality of the proposal and evidence of the benefit of group collaboration;
• the expected impact of the theme group on the participants' research fields;
• an account of how the planned activities will lead to a joint end product;
• the coordinator's leadership qualities;
• the feasibility of the study and resources, in particular the feasibility and lasting impact of research results.

Successful applicants are awarded a NIAS theme group fellowship. Researchers will be fellows of NIAS for one full research year, from 1 September to 30 June, or one semester of five months, starting on 1 September or 1 February respectively.
Closing date: 15 Apr 16

JACOBITE STUDIES TRUST FELLOWSHIPS
Institute of Historical Research

Description:
The Institute of Historical Research invites applications for the Jacobite Studies Trust fellowships. These non-residential fellowships support historical research into the Stuart dynasty in the British Isles and in exile, from the departure of James II in 1688 to the death of Henry Benedict Stuart in 1807. This may also include work on their friends and supporters, their activities, their influence, their views, ideologies, artefacts and works of art and the political, diplomatic, military, religious, intellectual and cultural context in which they lived.

Fellowships are open to:

- current doctoral students who have been registered on their programme for at least three years full-time or six years part-time;
• holders of the doctorates awarded within two years of the beginning of the session in which the awards are to be held, who are working in the research area of the trust.

Applications are encouraged from all suitably qualified candidates without regard to nationality or academic affiliation. Fellows should undertake further historical research and writing. They will not be required to be resident in London, but should participate in the activities of the institute.

Fellowships are worth £15,000 over one year.

DOCTORAL DISSERTATION GRANTS
International Research Foundation for English Language Education

Description:
The International Research Foundation for English Language Education (TIRF) and the British Council invite proposals for their doctoral dissertation grants. These support students whose dissertation research plans investigate one of the following research priority topics:

• digital technology in language education;
• language teacher education;
• language policy and planning;
• plurilingualism in business, industry, the professions and educational contexts;
• students’ age and effective English language education in schools.

Two types of grants are available: the first one is supported by the Cambridge English Language Assessment and the second one is offered in collaboration with the British Council.
Council. Proposals that have clear implications for educational policy makers and others in positions to make decisions about English language education practices are favoured.

Applicants must be clearly advanced to doctoral candidacy, meaning they must have completed their research, coursework or examinations as required by their university, and have had their research plan approved by a faculty committee. This must be confirmed by the candidate’s research supervisor through a letter of support.

In addition, for the British Council grants, applicants must be from the countries, or attending universities in the countries, on the Development Cooperation Directorate’s Development Assistance Committee’s list of countries. However, those attending universities in other countries but who are conducting research that has the potential for positive impact in developing nations, may also apply.

Grants are worth up to US$5,000 each. Funding covers conference travel, registration and accommodation fees, data collection and research meetings costs. Dissemination of the findings is strongly encouraged.

Closing date: 20 Apr 16
Deadline information: Proposals due by 11.59pm Pacific Time. This call is repeated once a year.

Tuart Morson Scholarship in Neurosurgery
Royal Australasian College of Surgeons

Description:
The Royal Australasian College of Surgeons invites applications for the Stuart Morson scholarship in neurosurgery. This enables neurosurgeons to undertake further research or training in neurosurgery overseas. Occasionally, the scholarship may enable overseas neurosurgeons to spend time in Australia or New Zealand furthering their research in neurosurgery.

Applicants should be neurosurgeons within five years of receiving their fellowship from the college, or neurosurgical trainees. Young surgeons who are registered to practice neurosurgery in Australia or New Zealand, but who are not fellows of the college, may also apply. Overseas neurosurgeons wishing to come to Australia or New Zealand for further training can only be considered prior to commencing their travel and cannot be considered once they have arrived in Australia or New Zealand to take up a position.

The scholarship is worth AU$30,000 for three to six months. Ref: REA-RES-025.

DAVID SAINSBURY FELLOWSHIPS
National Centre for the Replacement, Refinement and Reduction of Animals in Research

Description:
The National Centre for the Replacement, Refinement and Reduction of Animals in Research (NC3Rs) invites outlines for the David Sainsbury fellowships. These support early-career scientists with the transition to an independent career within one of the three areas of replacement, reduction and refinement and in any area of medical, biological or veterinary research. Proposals that integrate a range of disciplines, or that include an industrial partner, are particularly encouraged.

Applicants should have no more than five years’ postdoctoral experience. Final year PhD students may apply provided they are awarded their PhD before the fellowship begins. There are no residency requirements and international applicants are eligible to apply. Each application must identify a sponsor at the host organisation, which may include UK HEIs, independent research organisations and Research Council institutes.

The total budget is worth £1 million. Fellowships are tenable for three years.

Closing date: 26 Apr 16
Deadline information: Informal outlines due by 4pm, 26 April; full applications are invited between 4 May and 4pm, 22 June 2016. This call is repeated once a year.

SENIOR NON-CLINICAL FELLOWSHIP – TRANSITION TO LEADERSHIP
Medical Research Council

Description:
The Medical Research Council invites applications for its senior non-clinical fellowship. This provides non-clinical researchers with a track record of excellence in their scientific field with the opportunity to transition into research leaders. Proposals are encouraged across all areas of the research council’s remit, from basic studies with relevance to mechanisms of disease to translational and developmental clinical research.
Applicants should hold a PhD or equivalent; however, there are no rules based on years of postdoctoral experience. There are also no residence eligibility restrictions for this fellowship. The award is not available to individuals who hold a tenured academic position at the time of application. Applicants are encouraged to consider the opportunities to establish collaborative networks and for cross-sector development as the award will support a period of research overseas, at a second UK institution or within industry if appropriate.

In addition, applicants should demonstrate that their skills and experience match those of the transition to leadership career stage at the time of their application.

The fellowship comprises salary costs, support for research staff, consumables expenses, capital equipment for the research project and travel costs for a period of up to seven years. There is no limit for funding.

Description:
The Government of Western Australia’s Office of Science, under the Science and Agribusiness Connect initiative, invites applications for the Premier’s agriculture and food fellowship programme. This enhances the competitiveness of WA agrifood sector by offering a long-term opportunity for a distinguished researcher to lead cutting edge research and development using their data science and analytic capabilities to capture the opportunities offered by big data. In particular the objectives of the fellowship programme are to:

- attract a leader and distinguished researcher of international prominence from interstate or overseas to build and lead WA research teams;
- undertake research and development;
- increase WA’s capabilities and capacity in the area of research;
- deliver benefits and opportunities to regional WA;
- strengthen WA’s national and international research standing;
- improve WA’s local, national, international and industry collaboration in research and development;
- increase investment in research and development in WA.

The nominated fellow must be a distinguished researcher at the forefront of international scientific research who is:

- currently residing in Australia but outside WA; an expatriate Australian researcher, who wishes to return to pursue research in WA; or not of Australian nationality and currently overseas, who wishes to pursue research in WA. Also, the nominated fellow must be located during the period of funding on a full-time basis at a host university in WA. The host university must demonstrate collaboration with at least one other WA university.

The fellowship programme includes up to AU$1 million for the lead fellow over four years, and up to AU$500,000 for an early to mid-career fellow for four years. The total budget for this programme is AU$1.5 million.

Grawemeyer Award in Education
University of Louisville

Description:
The University of Louisville invites nominations for the Grawemeyer award in education. This aims to stimulate the dissemination, public scrutiny and implementation of ideas that have potential to bring about significant improvement in educational practice and advances in educational attainment. The award is intended not only to reward the individuals responsible, but also to draw attention to their ideas, proposals or achievements. The award is designed to recognise a specific recent achievement rather than a lifetime of accomplishment.

The award is open to individuals and nonprofit organisations. Nominations may be made by professional educators, educational institutions and organisations, or publishers and editors of educational books and journals. Entries must be submitted in English.

The award is worth US$100,000, payable in five annual instalments. The winner will be expected to come to Louisville during the second week in April to make a formal presentation based on the winning idea, participate in informal meetings with faculty and students as requested, and to receive the award.

BEL VISITING SCHOLAR PROGRAMME
International Mathematical Union

Description:
The International Mathematical Union and the Niels Henrik Abel Board invite applications for the Abel visiting scholar programme. This enables mathematicians professionally based in developing countries to visit an international research collaborator for a period of one month.

Applicants must hold a PhD in mathematics, be based in a developing country at the time of application, hold a position in a university or research institution and be in the early stages of their professional careers. Applicants should not yet be of full professorial rank but have a working contract in a university or college, and they must be under 40 years of age on the application deadline. The maximum age may be increased by up to three years in the case of an individual with a broken career pattern. Applications from women mathematicians are strongly encouraged. The applicant must already have initiated contact with the proposed international research partner. The collaboration should take place at the international partner’s home institution.

The grant is worth up to US$5,000, and will cover health insurance, visa cost, all travel and living expenses, including accommodation for one month.

Closing date: 30 Apr 16
Deadline information: Applications must be received at least four months before the desired starting date. Deadlines on: 30 April 2016, 31 August 2016, 8 January 2017.

RESEARCH ASSOCIATESHIP PROGRAMS: FAA/CIVIL AEROSPACE MEDICAL INSTITUTE
National Research Council

Description:
The National Research Council invites applications for its research associateship programs at the FAA/Civil Aerospace Medical Institute. The objectives of the programs are to provide postdoctoral scientists and engineers of unusual promise and ability with opportunities for research on problems, largely of their own choice, that are compatible with the interests of the sponsoring laboratories.

Awardees must hold a PhD, ScD, or other earned research doctoral degree recognized in US academic circles as equivalent to a PhD. Postdoctoral associates must have held the doctorate for under five years. Senior associates must have held the doctorate for five years or more or have equivalent research experience. Tenure ranges from three months to one year.

Opportunities are open to all US citizens and to citizens of other countries who have full command of the English language. The current annual stipend for a postdoctoral research associate is $42,000 plus a travel allotment of $2,000.

Closing date: 01 May 16

ISSUETION FIELDWORK GRANTS
Wenner-Gren Foundation for Anthropological Research

Description:
The Wenner-Gren Foundation for Anthropological Research invites applications for its dissertation fieldwork grants. These assist students of any nationality with doctoral or thesis research in anthropology. The research should demonstrate a clear link to anthropological theory and debates, and promise to make a solid contribution to advance these ideas.

Applicants must be currently enrolled for a doctoral degree and complete the application jointly with a dissertation supervisor or other scholar acting as the project’s supervisor.

There are no time limits on the duration of the grants, which may be worth up to US$20,000 each.

Closing date: 01 May 16
Description:
The Wenner-Gren Foundation for Anthropological Research invites applications for the Hunt postdoctoral fellowships. These support early-career investigators with the writing-up of already completed research in anthropology.

The research should demonstrate a clear link to anthropological theory and debates and promise to make a solid contribution to advancing these ideas. Proposals that employ a comparative perspective, generate innovative approaches or ideas, or integrate two or more subfields are particularly welcomed.

Applicants should be scholars who have held their PhD for no longer than 10 years. There are no restrictions on institutional affiliation, country of residence or nationality.

Up to eight fellowships, each of which provides up to US$40,000, are awarded to support periods of up to 12 months.

Description:
The Fund for Scientific Research - Flanders (FWO), with co-financing of the COFUND programme within the Marie Skłodowska-Curie Actions of Horizon 2020, invites applications for the Pegasus Marie Skłodowska-Curie fellowships. These aim to stimulate the international mobility of researchers by attracting excellent postdoctoral researchers to the Flemish community on the one hand, as well as by offering postdoctoral researchers in the Flemish community the opportunity to carry out part of their research abroad on the other hand. Therefore there are two programmes available:

Incoming fellowships: these are aimed at foreign postdoctoral researchers who wish to carry out their research in the Flemish community and postdoctoral researchers with the Belgian nationality who currently carry research abroad and wish to proceed their research in the Flemish community. Applicants must have obtained a PhD no longer than three years ago and have not stayed in Belgian for longer than 12 months in the three years preceding the fellowships. The fellowship covers a PhD salary between €29,069.73 and €45,317.25 yearly, plus a mobility allowance of €600 per month and a yearly bench fee of €4,000. It also covers a one-time return trip to Brussels for the fellow.

Outgoing fellowships: these are aimed at postdoctoral researchers of the Flemish community who wish to carry out research at a foreign research institution or company for the first two years of their fellowship. They must return to the Flemish community in the third year of their fellowship in order to continue their research activities at the Flemish host institution. Applicants must have obtained their PhD no longer than three years ago. They must also have been performing research activities in the Flemish community one year prior to the submission date and have not stayed for longer than 12 months in the previous three years in the country they wish to carry out their research. The fellowship covers a PhD salary between €29,069.73 and €45,317.25 yearly, plus a mobility allowance of €1,650 per month during the two years abroad and a yearly bench fee of €4,000. One-time travel expenses to and from the place of destination are covered as well.

There are 30 fellowships available for each programme, spread out over two calls in 2015 and 2016.

The leading topic of the conference is balancing the needs for research and translation in a time of limited resources, and topics include:

- smart biomaterials;
- surface modification and functionalisation;
- advanced manufacturing;
- antimicrobial surfaces and materials;
- biointerfaces;
- bioimaging and biosensing;
- tissue engineering and regenerative medicine;
- angiogenesis and vascularisation;
- drug and gene delivery;
- cell encapsulation and delivery;
- stem cells;
- cancer therapy;
- bone and cartilage;
- neural regeneration;
- cardiovascular applications;
- wound healing;
- clinical trials;
- translation and commercialisation.

Applications are open to students from academic or research centres based in a new EU country, other east European country or third world country. Applicants must have an accepted abstract and be the presenting author.

Winners receive free congress registration.

IRA AND HARRIET REISS THEORY AWARD
Society for the Scientific Study of Sexuality

Description:
The Society for the Scientific Study of Sexuality invites nominations for the Ira and Harriet Reiss theory award. The purpose of the award is to support theoretical advances in social science theories concerning human sexuality.

The award is made to the author of the best social science article, chapter, or book published in the previous year in which theoretical explanations of human sexual attitudes and behaviours are developed. In addition to careful theoretical development, stress will be placed on the use of relevant empirical evidence to examine the validity of the theoretical explanations.

The publication must have appeared in 2015. The author will be expected to present a plenary address based on the winning publication at the annual meeting of the Society for the Scientific Study of Sexuality which will be held in Arizona 17 to 20 November 2016.

The award consists of US$500 and a plaque. To defray expenses associated with the presentation, an additional US$500 will be made available.

INTERNATIONAL BIOETHICS RESEARCH TRAINING PROGRAMME (D43)
NIH: National Institutes of Health

Description:
The National Institutes of Health, Fogarty international Center and the National Human Genome Research Institute invite applications for their international bioethics research training programme (D43). This announcement aims to support mentored doctoral and long term postdoctoral research training for ethic experts from low and middle income countries that complements other global health research and research training programmes in the mission areas of the NIH institutes and centres. The overall goal of this initiative is to support the development of a sustainable critical mass of bioethics scholars in low and middle income country research intensive institutions with the capabilities to conduct original empirical or conceptual ethics research that addresses challenging issues in health research and research policy in these countries as well as provide research ethics leadership to their institutions, governments and international research organisations. FIC will support LMIC-US collaborative institutional bioethics doctoral and postdoctoral research training programs that incorporate didactic, mentored research and career development components to prepare a number of individuals with ethics expertise for positions of scholarship and leadership in health research institutions in the LMIC.

This funding opportunity uses the NIH international research training (D43) grants mechanism and runs in parallel with one of identical scientific scope, PAR-16-081, which solicits applications under the NIH education project (R25) mechanism.

Eligible applicants are foreign institutions in a LMIC or eligible US institutions that demonstrates collaborations with an LMIC institution.

Application budgets are limited to US$230,000 per year over the maximum period of five years.

EXTENDED DEADLINE: INTERMEDIATE FELLOWSHIPS IN PUBLIC HEALTH AND TROPICAL MEDICINE
Wellcome Trust

Description:
The Wellcome Trust has extended the closing date for the intermediate fellowships in public health and tropical medicine. The previous deadline of 29 April 2016 has now been extended to 23 May 2016. All other call information remains unchanged.

These enable mid-career researchers from low- and middle-income countries to establish an independent research programme.

Projects must be in public health or tropical medicine aimed at understanding and controlling human and animal diseases of local, national or global health importance. This may include laboratory-based molecular analysis of field or clinical samples, but projects focused solely on in vitro or animal model studies are not normally considered under this scheme. Topics may include the following:

- demographic, social science and health economic studies;
- epidemiological, field and community based studies;
- healthcare systems and policy research;
- measurement of infectious and chronic disease burden;
- population studies;
- clinical trials and case control studies;
- studies of disease mechanisms in the natural host;
- determinants of disease susceptibility and resistance;
- immunity or resistance in natural hosts or vectors.

Applicants must be nationals or legal residents of a low- or middle-income country and should be graduates in a relevant subject with a PhD, or a medical graduate with a higher qualification equivalent to membership of the UK Royal Colleges of Physicians or recognised as a specialist within a relevant research area. Three to six years' postdoctoral or research experience is required. Applicants who do not have a PhD but who are educated to first degree or master's level and have extensive research experience may be considered.

Fellows must be based at an eligible sponsoring institution that will administer the fellowship, and must have a sponsor who holds an established post for the duration of the award and who can guarantee that space and facilities will be available.

Fellowships last for up to five years and include basic salary, research expenses, training costs, funding allowance, travel to meetings and public engagement costs. Research-dedicated costs should not exceed £60,000 per year. Course fees and overseas allowances may also be considered.

Closing date: 23 May 16
Deadline information: Preliminary applications due by 5pm, 23 May; invited full applications due by 5pm, 18 July 2016.
Posted date: 13 Nov 15
Award type: Directed grants for individual investigators, Travel to conferences, meetings etc., Travel for research purposes, Equipment and materials, Networking/collaboration, Publish, edit, translate, disseminate, Mid-Career fellowships, Clinical trials

EXTENDED DEADLINE: TRAINING FELLOWSHIPS IN PUBLIC HEALTH AND TROPICAL MEDICINE

Wellcome Trust

Description:
The Wellcome Trust has extended the closing date for the training fellowships in public health and tropical medicine. The previous deadline of 29 April has been extended to 23 May 2016. All other call information remains unchanged.

These fellowships enable early-career researchers from low- and middle-income countries to gain research experience and high-quality research training in public health and tropical medicine. Projects must be in public health or tropical medicine aimed at understanding and controlling human and animal diseases of local, national or global health importance. This may include laboratory-based molecular analysis of field or clinical samples, but projects focused solely on in vitro or animal model studies are not normally considered under this scheme. Topics may include the following:

- demographic, social science and health economic studies;
- epidemiological, field and community based studies;
- healthcare systems and policy research;
- measurement of infectious and chronic disease burden;
- population studies;
- clinical trials and case control studies;
- studies of disease mechanisms in the natural host;
- determinants of disease susceptibility and resistance;
- immunity or resistance in natural hosts or vectors.

Applicants must be nationals or legal residents of a low- or middle-income country and should be either a graduate in a relevant subject with a PhD and no more than three years' postdoctoral experience, or a medical graduate with a higher qualification equivalent to membership of the UK Royal Colleges of Physicians and some initial research experience. Applicants may also apply if they do not have a PhD but have a clinical, basic or master’s degree and some initial research experience, with the expectation that they will register for a PhD.
Fellows must be based at an eligible sponsoring institution that will administer the fellowship, and must have an appropriate sponsor who holds an established post for the duration of the award. The sponsor must be able to guarantee that space and facilities will be available.

Fellowships normally last for three years, but may last for up to four years for those who wish to undertake a relevant master's training or diploma course. Support includes a salary, research expenses, training costs, a funding allowance, funding to attend scientific meetings and provision for public engagement costs. The trust may also provide project costs directly incurred by the overseas institution. Research-dedicated costs should not exceed £30,000 per year.

SENIOR RESEARCH FELLOWSHIPS IN BASIC BIOMEDICAL SCIENCE
Wellcome Trust

Description:
The Wellcome Trust invites applications for its senior research fellowships in basic biomedical science. These support outstanding postdoctoral scientists based in academic institutions in the UK and the Republic of Ireland. Candidates are expected to have an excellent track record in their scientific field and be able to demonstrate their ability to carry out independent research.

Applicants should have between seven and 12 years’ research experience at postdoctoral level or veterinary equivalent, and a substantial publication record in their chosen area of research in leading international journals. Each applicant must be:

- a UK or EEA national;
- a non-EEA national who either has a relevant degree from a UK university, or has worked in the UK for at least a continuous three-year period;
- an exceptional biomedical scientist who does not fall within the categories above.

Applicants need an eligible sponsoring host institution in the UK or Ireland with the support of the relevant head of department or equivalent, who must have a contract of employment with the host institution or an honorary academic appointment. Applicants who wish to undertake fieldwork or research in a low- or middle-income country must identify an appropriate head of department at the overseas institution. Time spent outside the research environment is considered.

Fellowships are tenable for five years in the first instance, and provide a basic salary, normally of up to £65,000 per year, with an additional trust supplement of £12,500 per year, research programme costs, including equipment and collaborative travel, inflation allowance and public engagement costs.

Closing date: 24 May 16
Deadline information: First round preliminary applications due by 5pm, 24 May; invited full applications due by 5pm, 27 July; second round preliminary applications due by 5pm, 19 September; invited full applications for second round due by 5pm, 21 November 2016. Senior Fellowships in Public Health and Tropical Medicine

Wellcome Trust

Description:
The Wellcome Trust invites applications for its senior fellowships in public health and tropical medicine. These enable researchers from low- or middle-income countries to establish themselves as leading investigators at an academic institution in the field of public health or tropical medicine, with the aim of building sustainable capacity in areas of research that increases health benefits for people and their livestock in these countries. Public health and tropical medicine cover a wide range of health problems, including communicable and non-communicable diseases.

Applicants must be nationals or legal residents of a low- or middle-income country, and either be graduates in a subject relevant to public health or tropical medicine with a PhD and at least five years' postdoctoral experience; or be medical graduates with a higher qualification equivalent to membership of the UK Royal College of Physicians; or be recognised specialists within a relevant research area and have at least five years' research experience.

Applicants who do not have a PhD but are educated to first degree or master’s level and have substantial research experience, may also apply. Priority is given to researchers working overseas who wish to return to their home country. In addition, applicants must be based at an eligible host institution in a low- and middle-income country, and have an appropriate sponsor who is a head of department or equivalent and holds an established post for the duration of the fellowship.

Fellowships are tenable for up to five years and cover salary, research expenses, course fees, research management and support costs, inflation allowance and public engagement costs. An overseas allowance may be provided for periods of training or collaborative research spent outside the host institution. Research-dedicated costs may not exceed £100,000 per year.

Closing date: 24 May 16
Deadline information: First round preliminary applications due by 5pm, 24 May; invited full applications due by 5pm, 27 July; second round preliminary applications due by 5pm, 19 September; invited full applications for second round due by 5pm, 21 November 2016. POSTGRADUATE TRAINING FELLOWSHIPS FOR WOMEN SCIENTISTS
Organization for Women in Science for the Developing World

Description:
The Organization for Women in Science for the Developing World invites applications for its postgraduate training fellowships for women scientists. These enable women scientists from sub-Saharan Africa and least developed countries to pursue postgraduate training leading to a doctorate degree at a centre of excellence in the south outside their own country. Fellowships support research in the natural, engineering and information technology sciences.

Women scientists from sub-Saharan Africa and least developed countries may apply. Applicants should have at least an MSc or equivalent, or an outstanding BSc honours degree in the natural sciences, engineering or information technology disciplines. The host institute must be located in a developing country other than the applicant’s home country. Applicants who wish to register as a PhD student at their home institution may undertake part of their research programme at a host institute in another developing country, for a minimum period of six months. Applications from students in basic or pure sciences such as mathematics, physics and chemistry are encouraged.

Full-time fellowships are offered for three years and cover travel, a monthly allowance for accommodation and meals, visa costs, a contribution towards medical insurance and attendance at international conferences. Sandwich fellowships are offered for a minimum period of six months and include travel, accommodation and living expenses while at the host institution.

MARK MILLS AWARD
American Nuclear Society

Description:
The American Nuclear Society invites applications for its Mark Mills award. This is awarded to the graduate student author who submits the best original technical paper contributing to the advancement of science and engineering related to the atomic nucleus.
The paper should demonstrate originality and ingenuity and should be in a form suitable for publication. A thesis is not acceptable. A paper already published or submitted for publication is eligible if nominated by the faculty advisor.

To be eligible for the award, the student must have been registered in a graduate degree program in a recognized institution of higher learning for one year prior to the award, and the student's faculty advisor must make a certification of this fact on the nomination form. Thus, this competition is open to a graduate student completing the work on which his or her paper is based from a minimum of four months prior to the award to a maximum of 16 months prior to the award. An engraved plaque and a monetary award are given.

REGORY KAVKA/UC IRVINE PRIZE IN POLITICAL PHILOSOPHY
American Philosophical Association

Description:
The American Philosophical Association invites submissions for the Gregory Kavka/UC Irvine prize in political philosophy. The prize is awarded for the best paper in a refereed journal, or an original book chapter or original essay published in a collection with a multiplicity of contributors, in the field of political philosophy, broadly understood.

Papers from any area of political philosophy and political theory are welcome, including the history of political philosophy, rational choice theory with implications drawn for political philosophy, and moral theory/applied ethics in which direct links are made to political philosophy or public policy. Papers for the 2013 award are eligible if they were published for the first time (not reprinted) during 2010 or 2011.

The amount of the prize is US$500. A symposium in honour of the recipient of the Kavka Prize will be scheduled at the Pacific Division Meeting, to include panellists commenting upon the ideas of the selected paper, followed by a response from the award winner. The author must be a member in good standing of the APA.

REEN TALENTS COMPETITION
Bundesministerium für Bildung und Forschung – German Federal Ministry of Education and Research

Description:
The German Federal Ministry of Education and Research (BMBF) invites applications for its green talents competition. This supports young scientists, working on sustainable development, to visit Germany for a two-week science forum followed by a fully funded research stay for up to three months.

The winners will be able to visit Germany’s leading institutions, in order to gather information and learn about the options for cooperation with German partners as part of a science forum and, in the following year, be invited to return to Germany for up to three months, to conduct research and establish partnerships.

Applicants must be non-German citizens and reside outside Germany, be currently enrolled in or have completed a master’s degree programme or higher with significantly above average grades, have a strong command of English and be no more than 32 years of age.

Both visits to Germany are fully financed by the BMBF. 25 awards are available.

FELLOWSHIPS
European Institutes for Advanced Study

Description:
The European Institutes for Advanced Study invites applications for its fellowship programme. This enables researchers to undertake 10-month residencies in one of the 16 participating EURIAS institutes: Berlin, Bologna, Budapest, Cambridge, Delmenhorst, Edinburgh, Freiburg, Helsinki, Jerusalem, Lyon, Marseille, Paris, Uppsala, Vienna, Wassenaar and Zürich. Fellowships are mainly offered in the fields of the humanities and social sciences but may also be granted to scholars in life and exact sciences, provided that their proposed research project does not require laboratory facilities and that it interfaces with humanities and social sciences.

At the time of the application, researchers must hold a doctoral degree plus two years of full-time research experience after the degree. Exception is made for law scholars who are eligible with a master’s degree plus six years of full-time research experience after the degree.

Researchers from all countries are eligible to apply however one cannot apply to an institute located in his or her country of residence. Exception is made for applicants who have spent no more than 12 months in their country of residence during the last three years prior to the application.

43 fellowship positions will be available for the academic year 2016-2017 – 21 junior positions and 22 senior positions. Each institute offers a living allowance of approximately €26,000 for a junior fellowship and approximately €38,000 for a senior fellowship as well as accommodation, a research budget and coverage of travel expenses.

IADR/COLGATE ORAL HEALTH RESEARCH AWARD
International Association for Dental Research

Description:
The International Association for Dental Research invites nominations for its Colgate oral health research award. This recognises research by a member of the IADR oral health research group, with preference given to dental hygienists. Submissions must represent original research in the area of oral health. This includes a broad array of basic, clinical and applied studies related to:

- strategies for the prevention of oral disease and promotion of wellness;
- outcomes of primary and secondary preventive care;
- interdisciplinary approaches to integrating oral health into general health;
- clinical efficacy of professional and personal oral hygiene measures;
- methods to improve health outcomes of compromised patients;
- the dental hygiene process of care;
- self-care strategies;
- disease-prevention and health promotion focused curricular models;
- science transfer methods;
- ethics and quality assurance;
- alternative patterns for practice;
- clinical decision-making;
- issues related to the conduct of research.

Nominees must be members of the IADR oral health research group. Dental hygienist nominees must be graduates of an accredited dental hygiene programme.

The award is worth US$2,000 and is intended to provide travel and other support related to attending the IADR annual meeting and participating in the oral health research group activities.

CENTRES OF EXCELLENCE
Danmarks Grundforskningsfond - Danish National Research Foundation

Description:
The Danish National Research Foundation invites outline proposals for its call for centres of excellence. These aim to strengthen Danish research by providing the best possible working conditions and organisational set-up for selected researchers across the areas of humanities, life sciences, natural sciences, social sciences and technical sciences. Centres of excellence consist of units based at research institutions sharing a common idea or vision, and an overall and clearly defined set of research objectives. The foundation welcomes outstanding research of a high international standard.

Applications may be for proposed centres whose research idea is ambitious and original, whose proposed leader has a high standing in the international scientific community, who include high-quality personnel aiming to establish a creative and dynamic international research environment, and whose focus, structure and size is not feasible within conventional funding. Centres are encouraged to collaborate with leading international researchers, and to include employees and visitors from abroad.

Grants may cover expenses for salaries, PhD students, postdoctoral staff, visiting staff, technical and administrative staff, travel costs and conferences, operational costs and equipment and overhead. Salaries for permanent staff are generally not funded. The size of grants vary, but can be granted for up to 10 years.

Closing date: 06 Jun 16

This recognises a graduate student for contributions to quality-by-design and product performance in the field of pharmaceutical sciences. The aim is to provide a scientific forum that creates and fosters multidisciplinary collaborations leading to enhanced product performance consistent with predefined objectives for greater patient benefit, and to leverage, advance and accelerate science- and risk-based approaches and technologies and develop strategies that link the critical quality attributes, product, process and patient throughout the product life cycle.

Applicants must be in the final year of graduate studies leading to a doctoral degree.

The award includes US$1,000.

EVOLUTIONARILY DISTINCT AND GLOBALLY ENDANGERED SPECIES FELLOWSHIPS
Zoological Society of London

Description:
The Zoological Society of London invites applications for its evolutionary distinct and globally endangered species fellowships. These enable early-career conservationists to carry out applied research or conservation projects on a local, poorly-known EDGE species, such as mammal, amphibian or coral EDGE or ED-DD species. Fellows will attend two regional training courses, undertake online modules in relevant topics, and receive one-to-one support from a scientific advisor based at the society or a partner organisation.

Early career conservation biologists or wildlife managers with less than 10 years experience may apply. Applicants should be nationals and residents of the country in which the proposed focal species occurs.
Priority is given to projects focusing on species where limited research has been done, or that currently receives little or no conservation attention. In addition, applications are favoured from areas where conservation capacity is most needed and where support is most likely to have a large impact. As such, projects in developed countries are unlikely to be funded.

Fellowships are worth up to £8,000 each over two years.

RADUATE TRAINING IN DISPARITIES RESEARCH GRANTS
Susan G Komen for the Cure

Description:
Susan G Komen for the Cure invites pre-applications for its graduate training in disparities research grants. These aim to establish or sustain a training programme for graduate students who are seeking careers dedicated to understanding and eliminating disparities in breast cancer outcomes across population groups. The programme should empower the students with the skills and knowledge necessary to effectively explore the causes of differential breast cancer outcomes and interventions to reduce and eliminate such disparities.

The principal applicant must have a doctoral degree and a full-time faculty appointment with an accredited non-profit institution or organisation. A minimum of three trainees, each of which must be enrolled in a master’s or doctoral degree programme, must be identified for the grant. Trainees from populations affected by disparities in breast cancer outcomes are strongly preferred. There are no citizenship requirements.

Each grant is worth up to US$135,000 per year for up to three years. Funding may be used to cover trainee stipends, mentors’ salaries, training materials, travel to annual trainee meeting and other associated training costs. Indirect costs are not allowed.

MALARIA CHAMPIONS OF THE AMERICAS AWARD

Pan American Health Organization

Description:

The Pan American Health Organization, in association with the Pan American Health and Education Foundation and the George Washington University Center for Global Health, invites nominations for the malaria champions of the Americas award. This award recognises the use of innovative approaches to overcome the challenges of malaria in the Americas. Candidates should demonstrate accomplishments or best practices in malaria diagnostic testing, treatment and surveillance. Nominations will be evaluated on the basis of achievements in the following areas:

- capacity building - exhibits use of best practices and contributes to the development of trained health workers and infrastructure to help reduce the burden of malaria;
- innovation - demonstrates the use of creative and effective strategies to increase the quality and uptake of services; collaboration - fosters partnerships with stakeholders within and across sectors to fortify and broaden the scope and reach of activities; impact - demonstrates measurable contribution to decreasing malaria-related morbidity and mortality in the community, country, region or globe.

Legally established organisations or collaborations may be nominated. Activities should be ongoing or completed within one year of the closing date for applications. The top three nominees will be invited to participate in a regional event for the commemoration of Malaria Day in the Americas, to be held on 8 November 2012. The overall winner will receive US$2,500, a commemorative plaque and the opportunity to participate in three capacity-building trainings for malaria prevention and control.

COMING SOON: CLINICAL RESEARCH POSTGRADUATE SCHOLARSHIPS

National Health and Medical Research Council

Description:
The National Health and Medical Research Council will shortly be inviting applications for its clinical research postgraduate scholarships. Applications for this call will open on 27 April and close on 29 June 2016. The following information is subject to change and refers to the previous call.

These scholarships provide support to combined MBBS and PhD students, and medical or dental graduates undertaking a postgraduate degree in any relevant health-related discipline, including the social and behavioural sciences.

For this year, electromagnetic energy research has been identified as a special interest area of the NHMRC. Applications are particularly encouraged from researchers wishing to build capacity in research knowledge to ascertain health effects of electromagnetic emissions.

Applicants must be Australian citizens or permanent residents, or New Zealand citizens who have special category visa status and are based in Australia for at least 80 per cent of the duration of the award. In addition, applicants should be one of the following:

- students currently enrolled in a combined MBBS or PhD programme;
- Australian citizens who are medical or dental graduates currently registered to practise within Australia at the time of application;
- medical graduates during their intern year;
- dental graduates prior to graduation, provided that evidence of high quality work is shown;
- medical or dental graduates from overseas who are currently registered to practise in Australia.

Full-time PhD scholarships last from one to three years and full-time master’s scholarships last from one to two years. Part-time scholarships can be held for up to six years. All projects must be based in Australia.

Stipends are worth up to AU$38,488 per year. Additional allowances include up to AU$2,250 per year for travel and consumables, AU$500 for thesis presentation costs and AU$1,385 for costs for relocation within Australia.

UPRÉ GRANTS
Multiple Sclerosis International Federation

Description:
The Multiple Sclerosis International Federation invites nominations for the Du Pré grants. These enable young researchers from emerging countries to undertake short visits to other MS research centres either to learn more from each other or to carry out parts of joint research projects. The aim is to encourage cross-fertilisation of skills through collaborative research projects.

University departments must nominate a candidate. Individuals, preferably young researchers from emerging countries, who are directly involved in a special MS research project, are eligible for nomination.

The duration of visits is generally between two and six months. About 10 grants are provided, each of which usually ranges from £2,000 to £4,000. The maximum sum available is £5,000. Funds are intended to contribute towards travel and living costs or to top-up an existing grant in order to extend a visit.

WACCI PHD FELLOWSHIPS

University of Ghana

Description:
The University of Ghana, through its West Africa Centre for Crop Improvement, invites applications for its WACCI PhD fellowships. This scheme is designed to train plant breeders who will make their careers breeding new cultivars of food crops. Coursework and research will focus on the following West Africa food crops:

- cereals: maize, rice, sorghum and millet;
- roots and tubers: cassava and sweet potato;
- legumes: cowpea and groundnut;
- vegetables: tomato and pepper.

The geographic focus of study will be West Africa, with initial emphasis on Ghana, Nigeria, Burkina Faso, Mali and Niger. Applicants from Cameroon and Senegal may also be considered. Applicants must hold a master’s degree in plant breeding, plant genetics, plant pathology, horticulture, crop science, applied entomology, applied nematology or an equivalent degree. Applicants should be under the age of 40 and must hold a position as an agricultural research scientist in a national research institute or university in their home country. A good knowledge of English is required.

The fellowships are tenable for four years, consisting of one year of academic study at the University of Ghana and three years of thesis research at the students’ research station or universities in their home countries. Students return in the last six months of the final year to complete and submit their theses. The fellowship will provide a stipend to cover reasonable personal living expenses, including return airfare.
