COMING SOON: SENIOR FELLOWSHIPS

International Research Center for Cultural Studies - Internationales Forschungszentrum Kulturwissenschaften

Description:

 The International Research Center for Cultural Studies will shortly be inviting applications for its senior fellowships. The application process will start in May 2015. The following information is subject to change. ***

These fellowships support excellent scholars, who are well advanced in their careers, who wish to carry out projects in Vienna that combine empirical investigation with thoughtful theoretical work. A thematic link to the IFK's current research focus on imaginations of disorders is desired but not a prerequisite for application. The IFK will also accept independent projects within the realm of humanities and social sciences unrelated to the present research focus. Scholars of any nationality, and from any institution, are welcome to apply, although preference will be given to applicants of international repute who are leading experts in their academic field. Senior fellowships will be granted for one academic semester and consist of a monthly allowance of up to €2,325, a workspace with electronic facilities at the IFK, as well as a return ticket to and from Vienna and free accommodation in a studio apartment.

EVARTS A GRAHAM MEMORIAL TRAVELLING FELLOWSHIP

American Association for Thoracic Surgery

Description:

The American Association for Thoracic Surgery invites applications for the Evarts A Graham memorial travelling fellowship. Fellowship grants support study by young cardiothoracic surgeons from outside North America at sites of their choice within North America. Goals of the programme are to broaden overall training and increase international contacts.

Each fellow should plan to have one primary centre for their activities where they should spend six to nine months. The fellow should have identified an individual at that centre who will act as their sponsor and assist in planning the course of study at the host institution and at other institutions. In addition to the primary centre, the fellow is encouraged to spend shorter periods of time at other secondary centres to enhance the fellowship experience. Non-North American residents who have completed their formal training in general, thoracic or cardiovascular surgery and who have had less than six months' prior training in North America may apply. Proficiency in English is a requirement for the fellowship. Applicants are expected to return to their native country on completion of the fellowship. The fellowship provides a stipend of US$75,000 and round-trip air travel.

Closing date: 01 Jul 15 (Forecast)

SIR HENRY DALE FELLOWSHIPS

Wellcome Trust

Description:

The Wellcome Trust and the Royal Society invite applications for the Sir Henry Dale fellowships. These enable postdoctoral scientists who wish to build their own UKbased independent research career to address an important biomedical question. Research may range from the molecules and cells vital to life and their role in the global spread of disease, to clinical and public-health research seeking to improve the quality of healthcare. It can be based in the laboratory, clinic or field, and may involve experimental or theoretical approaches.

Applicants are expected to have relevant scientific or mathematical qualifications and be no more than seven years from the date of receiving their PhD. They must be:

- a UK or EEA national;
- a non-EEA national who either has a relevant degree from a UK university, or has worked in the UK for at least a continuous three-year period;
- an exceptional biomedical scientist who does not fall within the categories above and whose recruitment to the host organisation would be advantageous to both the applicant and the organisation.

Applicants must also have an eligible sponsoring host organisation in the UK that can guarantee support and adequate space and resources for the duration of the award.

Fellowships are tenable for five years in the first instance, with the potential to apply for competitive renewal for an additional three years. Funding covers a basic salary plus an enhancement of £7,500 per year, research expenses, travel and subsistence, and overseas allowances. In addition, the funders provide an inflation and flexible funding allowance, as well as a contribution towards indirect and estate costs of £11,000 per year.

Closing date: 17 Jul 15

Deadline information: Preliminary applications due by 5pm on 17 April and 17 July 2015; invited full applications due by 5pm on 19 June and 9 October 2015. Deadlines on: 17 July 2015, 21 November 2015, 17 April 2016, and repeated annually.

POSTDOCTORAL FELLOWSHIP GRANTS FOR BASIC AND TRANSLATIONAL RESEARCH
Susan G Komen for the Cure

Description:

Susan G Komen for the Cure invites applications for its postdoctoral fellowship grants for basic and translational research. These support basic and clinical fellows with research that has the potential to advance the understanding of breast cancer and lead to reductions in breast cancer incidence or mortality. Projects should be laboratory- or field-based, while clinical trials or studies are acceptable as a part of the proposed laboratory research.

To be eligible, fellows must hold a doctoral degree and be without a faculty appointment. They must be no more than three years post-completion of their most recent clinical fellowship, five years post-completion of their most recent residency, or five years post-completion of their most recent PhD.

Each grant is worth up to US$60,000 per year for two to three years. Funding may be used to cover base salary for the PI, equipment costs, travel costs, publication costs, meeting-related poster printing costs, and reasonable coursework and training expenses. Indirect costs are not allowed.

Closing date: 17 Jul 15 (Forecast)

Deadline information: !! Call has not yet been announced by funder, but this is the approximate deadline we expect. Pre-applications due by 1pm ET, 17 July; invited full applications due by 1pm ET, 20 November 2015.

R ESearch FELLOWSHIPS IN SOCIETY AND ETHICS

Wellcome Trust

Description:

The Wellcome Trust invites applications for its research fellowships in society and ethics. These enable individuals who are not yet established in academic posts to undertake a period of postdoctoral research.

Fellowships may be used to enable researchers to obtain research training, either in a new discipline or a new aspect of their own field, and the training provision can include participation in taught courses and periods spent in other research groups gaining practical, technical or other skills for introduction to the sponsor's or individual's own group.

Applicants must be postdoctoral scholars who have been awarded their PhD but who are not in a tenured or otherwise long-term established posts. Fellowships must be held at an institution in the UK, Republic of Ireland or a low- or middle-income country. Each applicant must have a sponsor who is an established member of the department in which the award is to be held, as well as a supervisor who is responsible for the fellow's work.

Fellowships are worth up to £250,000 each. They provide a salary and research expenses, including travel and fieldwork and public engagement costs, for a period of up to three years.

Closing date: 23 Jul 15 (Forecast)

Deadline information: Call has not yet been announced by funder, but this is the approximate deadline we expect. This call is repeated 2 times a year.

R ESearch Fellowships for Health Professionals Wellcome Trust

Description:

The Wellcome Trust invites applications for its research fellowships for health professionals. This scheme is intended for practising health professionals who wish to carry out research in any area within the remit of the society and ethics programme, either full time or part time, while maintaining their work commitments.

The research should address a real-life issue in the candidate's professional practice that is relevant to the programme. Fellowships are particularly aimed at those who intend to pursue a long-term academic career exploring the ethical or social aspects of biomedical research or health interventions. This scheme can be used to enrol for a PhD for those who have little or no humanities or social science experience. It can also be used to undertake postdoctoral research.

Research fellowships must be held at a UK, Irish, or low- or middle-income country institution. Candidates should have completed general professional training and will still be working in their professional capacity at the preliminary application deadline. Candidates should be sponsored by someone, typically in a senior position, who has a contract of employment with an academic institution or, in the case of an NHS employee, an honorary academic appointment. The sponsor must also have tenure beyond the duration of the fellowship, and be in a position to guarantee space and facilities.

Fellowships are usually worth up to £250,000 and provide fellows with a salary plus employer contributions, essential research expenses and travel to conferences, seminars and other scholarly meetings. If enrolling for a PhD, a clinical salary will be provided, together with PhD registration fees, research expenses and a contribution to travel and general training costs. The maximum duration of the award is three years full time.

Description:

Lush and the Ethical Consumer Research Organisation invite applications and nominations for the Lush prize. This recognises outstanding contributions to replacing animal use in product safety testing in the areas of lobbying, public awareness, science, training and young research. Projects should focus on toxicity testing for consumer products and ingredients, complementing other projects already addressing the use of animals in medical testing.

Prizes can be awarded to projects anywhere in the world. Individuals may nominate projects, or organisations may nominate themselves.

In most years, several prizes worth £50,000 each are awarded. However, in any year where this is a major breakthrough in 21st century toxicology, a Black Box prize of £250,000 will be awarded to the responsible team or individual. Young researcher awards are also available for postdoctoral students specialising in alternative toxicology research.

POSTGRADUATE RESEARCH SCHOLARSHIPS Sugar Research Australia

Description:

Sugar Research Australia invites applications for its postgraduate scholarships. These enable students to undertake master's or PhD research degrees in disciplines relevant to the future of the Australian sugar industry.

Applications must address at least of the following areas:

- optimally adapted varieties, plant breeding and release;
- soil health and nutrient management;
- pest, disease and weed management;
- farming systems and production management;
- milling efficiency and technology;
- product diversification and value addition;
- knowledge and technology transfer and adaptation;
- capability development, attraction and retention.

Each candidate must be an Australian citizen or permanent resident accepted for postgraduate study at a recognised research institution in Australia. PhD applicants of proven ability may apply to train overseas, provided that the benefits are utilised in the Australian sugar industry. Preference is given to applicants who receive an Australian postgraduate award or equivalent scholarship.

For applicants not currently holding a scholarship, funding includes a AU$32,000 annual stipend. Top-up scholarships offer up to 75 per cent of the scholarship stipend. Scholarships also include an additional AU$10,000 per year in operating expenses and AU$1,000 towards the costs of thesis submission. The thesis payment is only available to applicants who submit their thesis within four and a half years for PhD studies, and three years for master's studies. Master's scholarships are offered for up to two years and PhD scholarships for up to three years full-time.

ADVANCED POSTDOCTORAL FELLOWSHIPS

Juvenile Diabetes Research Foundation International

Description:

The Juvenile Diabetes Research Foundation International invites proposals for its advanced postdoctoral fellowships. These enable qualified and promising health scientists to receive full time research training and to transition from a fellowship to an independent faculty-level position. Fellows are required to work with a sponsor who can provide a training environment conducive to beginning a career in type 1 diabetes-relevant research.

Applications may be submitted by public or private non-profit organisations. Applicants must be in an early stage of their career with generally no more than five years between their first degree, which may be a PhD, MC, MD, DMD, DVM or equivalent, and the fellowship application. Applicants who have completed one to three years of postdoctoral training are encouraged to apply.

Awards support a period of three years and are worth up to US$90,000 per year. Applicants may also request a transition award, worth US$110,000 for one year, to assist the awardee's advancement to a faculty position.

S SCIENCE AND SCILIFELAB PRIZE FOR YOUNG SCIENTISTS

Science for Life Laboratory

Description:

The Science for Life Laboratory, the Science magazine and the American Association for the Advancement of Science invite entries for their prize for young scientists. This recognises the best research thesis related to life science for which the candidate was awarded a doctoral degree. Research must relate to one of the following subjects:

- cell and development biology, including cellular and molecular processes at levels ranging from single molecule to single cell tissue and organ systems;
- genomics and proteomics, with a focus on analyses of gene- and protein-related events, at the scale of gene or protein networks to the complete set of genes or proteins in an organism;
- ecology and environment, including interactions between organisms and their environment, and how these processes are influenced by human activity;
- translational medicine, including in vitro or animal model studies of biological processes to develop potential therapies or medical procedures.

Eligible entrants are young scientists who received a PhD between 1 January 2013 and 31 December 2014. The work must have been conducted while the applicant was a graduate student.

A total of five prizes are available. Category prizes are worth up to US$10,000 each, and the grand prize is worth US$30,000. Winning essays may be published in the Science magazine and online.

FELLOWSHIP PROGRAMME

International Tropical Timber Organization

Description:

The International Tropical Timber Organization invites applications for its fellowship programme. This seeks to promote human resource development and to strengthen professional expertise in member countries in tropical forestry, tropical timber industries and related disciplines.

Priority areas include:

- promoting good governance and enabling policy frameworks for strengthening sustainable forest management and related trade, and enhancing SFM financing and investment;

- increasing the contribution of tropical forests to national and local economies, including through international trade;
- enhancing the conservation and sustainable use of biodiversity in tropical timber producing forests;
- reducing tropical deforestation and forest degradation and enhancing the provision of environmental services;
- improving the quality and availability of information on tropical forests, forest product markets and trade;
- building and developing human resource capacity to implement SFM and increase trade in forest goods and services from sustainably managed forests.

The fellowship programme is open to individuals who are nationals of ITTO member countries. Eligible activities include participation in conferences, short-term training courses, training internships at industries, study tours, small grants for postgraduate studies, lecture or demonstration tours, help with manuals and monographs and small grants for post graduate studies. Preference will be given to short-term activities.

Fellowship awards are worth up to US$10,000.

POSTGRADUATE BURSARY PROGRAMME - PHD AND MSC BURSARIES
South African National Research Foundation

Description:

The South African National Research Foundation invites applications for PhD and MSc bursaries through the square kilometre array postgraduate bursary programme. This supports students who wish to pursue postgraduate research in radio astronomy or in relevant fields of engineering. There are three categories of bursaries available:

- scholarships for South African citizens and permanent residents who wish to complete an MSc or PhD at a South African university;
- scholarships for citizens of Botswana, Ghana, Kenya, Madagascar, Mauritius, Mozambique, Namibia or Zambia who wish to complete an MSc or PhD at a South African university;
- scholarships for citizens of Botswana, Ghana, Kenya, Madagascar, Mauritius, Mozambique, Namibia, South Africa or Zambia who wish to complete an MSc or PhD at a university in one of the following SKA partner countries: Botswana, Ghana, Kenya, Madagascar, Mauritius, Mozambique, Namibia and Zambia.

The areas of research that will be considered are:

- observational and computational radio astronomy – epoch of reionisation; radio pulsars and transients; cosmology and galaxy evolution;
- radio astronomy engineering and techniques – interferometric data processing; real-time signal processing for radio astronomy; mid-frequency aperture array technology; wide-band single-pixel receivers; DOME-relevant research; radio frequency interference measurement, monitoring, mitigation and excision.

PhD bursaries are tenable for a maximum of three years, while MSc bursaries are tenable for a maximum of two years, subject to satisfactory progress.

PhD bursaries are worth up to ZAR117,000 per year, and also include an annual travel grant worth up to ZAR21,000 and a maximum equipment grant for the duration of the bursary worth up to ZAR30,000. MSc bursaries are worth up to ZAR92,000 per year, and also include an annual travel grant worth up to ZAR16,000 and a maximum equipment grant for the duration of the bursary worth up to ZAR20,000. Non-South Africans who apply to study at a South African university may also receive a home travel grant, repatriation fee and emergency medical insurance.

YOUNG INVESTIGATOR AWARD American Society of Clinical Oncology

Description:

The American Society of Clinical Oncology invites applications for its young investigator award. This award provides funding to promising investigators to encourage and promote quality research in clinical oncology. The purpose of the award is to fund physicians during the transition from a fellowship programme to a faculty appointment. Proposals with a clinical research focus are supported; preclinical in vitro and animal studies are acceptable as long as the outcome of these studies would ultimately lead to patient-orientated clinical research.

Applicants must be physicians (MD, DO or international equivalent with explanation) who are currently in the last two years of their subspecialty training at an academic medical institution at the time of grant submission.

The applicant must also be a member of ASCO, or submit a membership application with the grant application. The amount of the award is US$50,000 for one year. Applicants must have a mentor in the proposed research field from a sponsoring institution.

VISITING SENIOR FELLOWSHIP PROGRAM
National Gallery of Art

Description:

The Center for Advanced Study in the Visual Arts, a part of the National Gallery of Art, announces its program for the Paul Mellon and Ailsa Mellon Bruce visiting senior fellowships. Fellowships are for full time research, and scholars are expected to reside in Washington and to participate in the activities of the center throughout the fellowship period. Lectures, colloquia, and informal discussions complement the fellowship program.

Applications will be considered for study in the history, theory and criticism of the visual arts, including painting, sculpture, architecture, landscape architecture, urbanism, prints and drawings, film, photography, decorative arts, industrial design, and other arts, of any geographical area and of any period. Applications are also solicited from scholars in other disciplines whose work examines artifacts or has implications for the analysis and criticism of physical form.

Fellowships are intended for those who have held a PhD for five years or more or who possess an equivalent record of professional accomplishment at the time of application. Fellowships are awarded without regard to the age or nationality of applicants.

There are up to 12 short-term fellowships lasting up to 60 days. Fellows receive a stipend that includes round-trip travel and local expenses. Stipends for a two-month fellowship range from $6,000 to $8,000, depending on relocation requirements.

Fellows also receive allowances for photography.
