CHARLES BULLARD FELLOWSHIPS IN FOREST RESEARCH

Harvard University

Description:

Harvard University invites applications for the Charles Bullard fellowships in forest research. The purpose of this fellowship programme is to support advanced research and study of forestry and forestry-related subjects from biology to earth sciences, economics, politics, administration, philosophy, humanities, the arts or law.

Bullard fellowships are generally awarded to individuals in mid-career who have established themselves in public service, in academia, or in the private sector. For those in academic careers preference is ordinarily given to holders of doctoral degrees. This is not a postdoctoral position and recent PhD graduates are generally not appropriate candidates. The fellowships carry stipends of up to $40,000, or more if necessary, one return trip between the fellowship site location and the home base, and a $500 supplies budget.

Closing date: 01 Feb 12

PHD FELLOWSHIPS
Boehringer Ingelheim Fund

Description:

Boehringer Ingelheim Fonds invites applications for its PhD fellowships. These support basic biomedical research conducted by scientists not older than 27 years in an internationally leading laboratory in Europe. The research should be aimed at elucidating basic biological phenomena of human life and acquiring new scientific knowledge. Applicants will hold a diploma or equivalent degree and have passed their state examinations when applicable. At the deadline, applicants should not have worked on their project for longer than six months. Applicants should be European citizens working in Europe or overseas or non-European citizens pursuing their PhD project in Europe. Scholarships are granted for at least two years, with the option of renewal for a further 12 months. The basic monthly grant is worth €1,550. In most countries scholars are paid an additional €150 per month to cover minor project-related costs such as books and travelling expenses and premiums for personal insurance. A separate country-related premium is added and spouse or child allowance may be available.

R

RESEARCH FELLOWSHIPS

Harry Ransom Humanities Research Center

Description:

The Harry Ransom Humanities Research Center invites applications for its research fellowships. The fellowships enable scholars to pursue research projects in all areas of the humanities. Approximately 50 fellowships are awarded annually. Priority will be given to proposals that concentrate on the center's collections and that require substantial onsite use of them.

The center awards fellowships of one to three months, with funding at $3,000 per month. Travel stipends worth $1,200 to $1,700 may be awarded to scholars with research projects that require less than one month's research at the center.

The fellowships available are as follows:

- the American Society for 18th century Studies: two fellowships, jointly sponsored with the Ransom Center, for literary, cultural or historical study. Applicants must be members of ASECS at the time of application;
- the British Studies fellowship for research in British literary, cultural, and historical subjects;
- the Cline fellowships for research on 19th or early 20th century British topics;
- the Robert De Niro endowment fund for film research, especially in the center's Robert De Niro collection;
- the Dorot Foundation fellowships in Jewish studies for research on Jewish authors and on relevant cultural topics requiring research in the center's collections. These fellowships may be extended to three months or, exceptionally, for longer periods;
- the David Douglas Duncan endowment for photojournalism for research in the center's photography collections;
- the TS Eliot editorial fellowship, jointly sponsored by the University of London Institute of English Studies and the Ransom Center, for scholars working on the TS Eliot editorial project. Applicants must be affiliated with the IES.
- the Filmscript Acquisitions Endowment for research in the Center's film collections;
- the Fleur Cowles fellowships: two are available for research on topics related to 20th century art, journalism, women's studies, and general literature and culture;
- the Edwin Gale fellowship for research on Jewish writers, photographers, artists, performers and the Jewish presence in culture as represented in the Ransom Center's collections, while providing affiliated with the Schusterman Center for Jewish Studies at the University of Texas at Austin;

- the Erle Stanley Gardner endowment for mystery studies supports research on topics related to mystery and suspense;
- the Hobby Family Foundation fellowship for research in general literary studies;
- the Alfred A and Blanche W Knopf fellowship for research in the areas of publishing and general literary studies, with special emphasis given to research concerning Knopf authors;
- Limited Editions Club for research in the center's rare book and print collections, with emphasis given to work with illustrated books;
- the Norman Mailer endowed fund for research related to Norman Mailer's writings, times and the archive;
- the Andrew W Mellon Foundation: a number of fellowships are available in general literary and cultural studies. These fellowships may be extended to three months.
- the Marlene Nathan Meyerson photography fellowship for research in the center's photography collections;
- the Cora Maud Oneal fellowship for research in general literary studies;
- the Pforzheimer endowment: two fellowships are available for research in the Pforzheimer collection as well as in general Renaissance studies;
- the Warren Skaaren film research endowment supports research in the center's film collections;
- the CP Snow fellowship for research in general literary and cultural studies, with a special emphasis on the relationship of literature and science;
- the Weinsten memorial fellowship for research in 20th-century American literature;
- the Woodward and Bernstein endowment supports research on topics related to Watergate, the First Amendment and the press.

Six dissertation fellowships jointly sponsored by the Ransom Center and the University of Texas at Austin Office of Graduate Studies are designated for graduate students who are working on doctoral dissertations. Dissertation fellowship residencies must be taken up during the period from September 1, 2012 through August 31, 2013. There is not a specific required length of residency for dissertation fellowships.

Applicants must be postdoctoral or equivalent or have a substantial record of scholarly achievement. There are no nationality restrictions.

TRAVEL GRANTS FOR ECOLOGISTS FROM DEVELOPING COUNTRIES British Ecological Society

Description:

The British Ecological Society invites applications for its travel grants for ecologists from developing countries. These enable ecologists from low-income economies to attend BES annual meetings and symposia, including those run jointly with other societies, within the UK, developing robust and productive contact with UK specialists in their chosen field of study.

Applicants must be scientists with at least a BSc or equivalent degree, who are citizens of countries classified under World Bank categorisation as low-income or lower-middle-income economies. The former will have priority. They must be working or studying at a university or research institution with basic research facilities within an area of ecology relevant to the meeting they are applying to attend.

Awards are worth £2,000 for visits lasting up to 14 days.

INTERNATIONAL PARTNERSHIP AND MOBILITY AWARDS British Academy

Description:

The British Academy invites applications for its international partnership and mobility awards. The aim of this scheme is to support the development of partnerships between the UK and other areas of the world where research excellence would be strengthened by new, innovative initiatives and links. The scheme intends to strengthen research capacity and capability, with all partners gaining from the collaboration, and to initiate the development of long-term, vigorous links between the UK and overseas scholars whilst also encouraging an intra-regional exchange of expertise and knowledge sharing. Awards cover any branch of the humanities or social sciences and are intended to focus on collaborative research on a specific theme of mutual interest. In this round the scheme is open to one-year and three-year partnerships between UK scholars and scholars in Africa, Latin America and the Caribbean, the Middle East, and south and east Asia. One-year awards may be viewed as pump-priming grants while three-year awards will develop research further and involve a more extensive programme of collaboration and exchange. Workshops and seminars should form an integral part of the programme. Partnerships including a training element and involving early-career scholars will be looked on favourably. Both a principal and co-applicant are required for this scheme. The principal applicant must be ordinarily resident in the UK, the Isle of Man or the Channel Islands and able to demonstrate that they will be based at their present employing research-active institution for the duration of the award. The co-applicant must be based at a research-active institution in Africa, Latin America and the Caribbean, the Middle East, south or east Asia for the duration of the award. All applicants must be of postdoctoral or equivalent status. Awards are worth up to £10,000 per annum for a period of one or three years.

EVERHULME - ROYAL SOCIETY AFRICA AWARDS (PHASE II)

Royal Society

Description:

The Royal Society, in partnership with the Leverhulme Trust, invites applications for phase II of its Africa awards. This scheme is intended to assist in strengthening the research and training capacity in research institutions in Ghana and Tanzania through the transfer of specific skills. Applications are welcome in all areas of the life and physical sciences, including engineering but are particularly encouraged from the following five national research priority areas in Ghana and Tanzania:

- agriculture (including animal health);
- water and sanitation;
- basic human health research (including medicinal chemistry);
- biodiversity (including medicinal plants and green chemistry);
- energy (including biofuels).

There are two new additional elements to the award:

- applicants may include an additional African research institute within sub-Saharan Africa as part of the project proposal. This is an optional element and carries no additional funding;
- applicants may include a PhD student as part of the project proposal. Should applicants wish to do so, additional funding of up to £10,000 per annum is available to support a PhD student based at the African host institution.

It is expected that most of the research is undertaken in the African laboratory or field site. Both the UK and Ghanaian or Tanzanian project leaders must be of at least postdoctoral status or equivalent and have a proven track record of training students at masters and doctoral level. The UK scientist must be resident in the UK and the Ghanaian or Tanzanian scientist resident in Ghana or Tanzania. UK scientists must hold a permanent or fixed-term contract for the duration of the award. Existing award holders whose project ends in 2012 are eligible to apply. Funding is provided for three years and is worth up to £60,000 per annum, or £50,000 per annum for proposals that do not include a PhD student.

C COMMUNITY-BASED CLIMATE CHANGE ACTION GRANTS Australian Agency for International Development (AusAID)

Description:

The Australian Agency for International Development invites applications for its community-based climate change action grants. These grants are available to Australian and international non-governmental organisations for the purpose of providing community-based adaptation and mitigation strategies for climate change in South-East Asia and the Pacific.

The grants fall into two main categories: adaptation, which will help build community resilience to climate change; mitigation, which will help communities reduce their greenhouse gas emissions.

Applicant organisations should also take into account Australian development priorities, which are:

- promoting local community ownership;
- using existing community structures;
- ensuring members of the community understand and support the activity;
- encouraging partnership between stakeholders;
- ensuring that the specific needs of disadvantaged people are addressed and that there are opportunities for them to participate;
- strengthening capacity within communities;
- ensuring rigorous approach to monitoring and evaluation;
- having clear learning objectives and communication strategies;
- demonstrating commitment to development effectiveness.

Adaptation activities should also aim to build resilience to climate change impacts on vulnerable communities, and mitigation activities should provide credible estimates of reduced emissions.

There is a total available budget of $30 million for this call, with between $1m and $2m available for projects in Pacific countries, and $1m and $3m available for projects in countries in South-East Asia.

This award is in Australian research income Category 2.

DU PRÉ GRANTS Multiple Sclerosis International Federation

Description:

The Multiple Sclerosis International Federation invites nominations for the Du Pré grants. These enable young researchers from emerging countries to undertake short visits to other MS research centres either to learn more from each other or to carry out parts of joint research projects. The aim is to encourage cross-fertilisation of skills through collaborative research projects. In 2012, research in the areas of symptom relief, rehabilitation and palliative care is encouraged. University departments must nominate a candidate. Individuals, preferably young researchers from emerging countries, who are directly involved in a special MS research project are eligible for nomination. Grants usually range between £1,000 and £4,000. The maximum sum available is £5,000. Funds are intended to contribute towards travel and living costs or to top-up an existing grant in order to extend a visit.

C ALL FOR PROPOSALS - SCIENCE-2-BUSINESS PROGRAMME EuroScience Open Forum

Description:

The EuroScience Open Forum and Science Foundation Ireland invite proposals for the science-2-business programme. This programme will offer delegates the opportunity to engage with business experts, irrespective of the stage at which their idea, business or entrepreneurial career may be. Proposals are invited to host workshops on each of the following themes:

- how does the economic environment influence opportunities for science to business activity?
- what do we mean by innovative entrepreneurship and why should it become an integral part of government policy?

- what is required to engender greater entrepreneurial activity amongst science, engineering and technology students and graduates?
- what should universities do to encourage more spin-outs and licensing arrangements?
- what actions should be taken to reduce the barriers for innovators to start a business?
- what is the future of open innovation?

- a 90-minute guide on everything you should consider when starting a business;
- why are business clusters beneficial to enterprises and regions?
- what are the challenges involved in building innovative capability?
- what are the challenges involved in getting intellectual property protection?
- multinationals in search of research output and people;
- what are 'exit strategies' and why should I think about them at the start?

Successful applicants will be responsible for the full 90 minutes of the workshop in terms of selecting speakers, style of delivery, audience interaction and fit with the overall programme. Proposals should be imaginative, interactive and involve at least three partners from three countries, incorporating a strong geographical and organisational spread. Conference facilities will be provided and contributors will be exempted from paying the conference registration fee.

Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations

Description:

The Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, in partnership with the Cornell International Institute for Food Agriculture and Development, invites submissions on the subject of inclusive agro-enterprise development. Grants are available to professionals from developing countries who have their contributions accepted for presentation at the pre-conference symposium of the 28th conference of the International Association of Agricultural Economists. The symposium will bring together leading scholars, government officials, private sector representatives and development practitioners to discuss innovative approaches for the promotion of inclusive agro-enterprise development. Areas of special interest for discussion include:

- business models linking producers and buyers;
- agro-industry clusters, agribusiness incubators and agro-food parks;

- agro-based growth corridors and special economic zones;
- technical and financial support for SMEs;
- collective action and producer associations/cooperatives;
- risk management approaches and tools for smallholders;
- pro-poor investment promotion policies and mechanisms;
- incentives for micro and missing-middle investors;
- infrastructure investments to enhance market integration. Grants are designed to defray the costs of participation in the event and are worth up to $2,500.

GRANTS FOR GAMING RESEARCH

Finnish Foundation for Gaming Research - Pelitoiminnan Tutkimussäätiö

Description:

The Finnish Foundation for Gaming Research invites applications for its grants for gaming research. These support research on gambling and gaming as a social, societal and cultural phenomenon. Medical, psychological, or other therapies, research into problem gambling and gaming and research unrelated to gambling are outside the scope of this funding. The foundation awards four types of grants:

- personal grants for full-time research. Talented doctoral students and young scholars who have recently defended a doctoral dissertation are prioritised, though established scholars may apply. Grants are worth up to €23,000 for a maximum of one year;

- travel grants to cover travel, lodging, and participation expenses that occur from academic paper, poster, or panel presentations. The promotion of international high-profile collaborative projects and ethnographic fieldwork may also be funded;
- grants for publications and seminars, awarded to promote high-quality book or translation projects, to support the visualisation of publications or to cover costs of archival work. Also available in this category is funding for the organisation of seminars and academic gaming-related guidance;
- grants for master's theses, which are awarded for talented master's students to cover necessary travel expenses. Priority is given to applicants who seek to continue their studies toward a doctoral degree. Grants are worth a maximum of €4,000.

All scholars and research teams working in, or on, Finland are eligible to apply, as are Finnish scholars working abroad.

Description:

The Institute of Advanced Studies at the United Nations University invites applications for its PhD fellowships. These fellowships are available for candidates from educational institutions around the world who would benefit from a stay of 12 months at UNU-IAS. Applicants must be at the dissertation writing stage of their PhD with a research proposal accepted by the candidate's university and able to make use of the UNU-IAS facilities in Yokohama to carry out their research. Research topics should relate clearly to one of the following current research areas of the UNU-IAS:

- science and technology for sustainable societies;
- sustainable urban futures;
- biodiplomacy;
- sustainable development governance;
- traditional knowledge;
- marine/coastal governance and urban biodiversity.

The fellowship provides a monthly stipend of ¥260,000, from which a monthly usage charge for accommodation is deducted. A one off allowance of ¥80,000 will be granted to each fellow for adjustment expenses and incidental costs. Fellows will also receive a return air ticket. Applicants from developing countries and women are particularly encouraged to apply.

STUDENT RESEARCH AWARD International Society for Aerosols in Medicine

Description:

The International Society for Aerosols in Medicine invites applications for its student research award. This is given to an investigator who is currently a full-time student enrolled in an MD, PhD or master's programme and has demonstrated outstanding independent research in the field of aerosols. Competition for this award is part of the biennial ISAM congress. In addition to a cash award, the first place winner will be sponsored to attend the ISAM congress and will commit to publish part of their work in the Journal of Aerosol Medicine. A second and third place winner will each be reimbursed for their travel expenses to the congress. The nominee does not have to be a member of ISAM.
