JWT JONES TRAVELLING FELLOWSHIP

Royal Society of Chemistry

Description:

The Royal Society of Chemistry invites applications for the JWT Jones travelling fellowship. This enables younger chemists to carry out short-term studies in well-established scientific centres abroad and to learn and use techniques not accessible to them in their own country.

Candidates must have been members of the society for at least one year and should be under 45 years of age. They must hold at least a doctorate in chemistry or related subject and should already be in post and actively engaged in independent research. Applicants are required to return to their country of origin upon termination of the fellowship so that the applicant's home country may benefit from the broadened knowledge acquired during the fellowship.

The fellowship is worth up to £5,000 over one to three months to cover travel and subsistence.

Closing date: 01 Jul 15

Deadline information: Deadlines on: 1 July 2015, 1 October 2015, 1 January 2016, 1 April 2016, and repeated annually.

E SF -EMBO SYMPOSIUM ON INTERACTION BETWEEN THE IMMUNE SYSTEM AND NANOMATERIALS: SAFETY AND MEDICAL EXPLOITATION
European Science Foundation

Description:

The European Science Foundation and the European Molecular Biology Organisation invite applications for grants to attend the ESF symposium on interaction between the immune system and nanomaterials: safety and medical exploitation. The symposium will encompass the following sessions:

- nano-immune interaction – how the encounter with nano-objects can affect immune responses;
- immuno-targeting and intelligent design – exploiting nano-objects for regulating immunity;
- models for assessing the impact of nano-objects on the human immune responses;
- networking and foresight.

The meeting, to be held from 4 to 9 October in Pultusk, Poland, will gather internationally leading experts and will give special attention to involving the younger fellows.

Grants are available to cover the conference fee and possibly part of the travel costs for students and early stage researchers. Grants are distributed based on financial need and scientific merit. Grantees must attend the entire conference in order to benefit from the grant.

CONFERENCES AND CONFERENCE SERIES European Molecular Biology Organisation

Description:

The European Molecular Biology Organisation invites applications for its conferences and conference series. These aim to support European scientific communities by providing an opportunity for scientists to meet and discuss topics with leaders in the field. The conferences should cover different and evolving aspects of a relatively broad subject area of major importance to the scientific community worldwide.

Organisers can apply for a one-off conference or a conference that they expect to be part of a series of conferences, held at two or three yearly intervals in the organisation's member states or in co-operating partner countries, although organisers can be based anywhere.

The maximum funding available for a conference held in a EMBO member country is €30,000, respectively €20,000 for conferences based in non-EMBC or non co-operation countries. Funds can be used to cover travel, accommodation and subsistence costs for speakers and participants, administration costs, room hire, audio-visual facilities, etceteras.

AERC/JOURNAL OF AFRICAN ECONOMIES VISITING SCHOLARS PROGRAMME

African Economic Research Consortium

Description:

The African Economic Research Consortium invites applications for its AERC/Journal of African Economies visiting scholars programme. This programme provides for short-term visiting fellowships to the Centre for the Study of African Economies at the University of Oxford. The programme will enable AERC network members to visit Oxford and distil a publishable journal article from their research reports. Fellows are expected to attend all CSAE seminars and to present at least one seminar on their own research while in Oxford.

Applicants need to have a PhD in economics and be affiliated with an academic institution or research centre located in sub-Saharan Africa. They must also have authored publications in refereed journals.

A stipend will be provided to cover the cost of a plane ticket and the cost of living while in Oxford. Each visit would normally last for a period of two months, coinciding with one academic term at Oxford.

Closing date: 08 Aug 15 (Forecast)

I INTERNATIONAL TRAINING AND FIELDWORK AWARD

British Society for Parasitology

Description:

The British Society for Parasitology invites applications for its international training and fieldwork award. This gives parasitologists at an early stage in their careers the opportunity to undertake international fieldwork or to visit overseas institutions. The aim is to broaden the horizons of laboratory-based workers, by funding travel in pursuit of their academic interests in parasitology, especially for those who would not otherwise be able to gain international field or laboratory experience and tuition.

Applicants should be PhD students or should have completed their PhD within the last two years. Awardees must have been a member of the society for at least six months at the time of application.

The society will provide support of up to £1,500, which should cover the costs of travel and subsistence for no less than two weeks.

INSTITUTIONAL GRANTS Tinker Foundation

Description:

The Tinker Foundation invites applications for its institutional grants. These aim to support the creation of effective policy changes to improve the lives of Latin Americans.

Proposals should address one of the following areas of interest:

- democratic governance;
- education;

- sustainable resource management;
- US policy toward Latin America;
- Antarctica science and policy.

The organisational entity needs to hold a 501(c)3 charitable status or its equivalent if based outside the United States. Projects should have a strong public policy component, offer innovative solutions to problems facing these regions, and incorporate new mechanisms for addressing these programmatic areas. Collaboration between organisations in the United States and Latin America is encouraged, and funding preference is given to those institutions actively engaged with external stakeholders in addressing an issue of concern.

V ISITING SCHOLARS

World Institute for Development Economics Research of the United Nations University

Description:

The World Institute for Development Economics Research of the United Nations University invites applications for its visiting scholars programme. This enables qualified scholars to spend approximately two to three months at UNU-WIDER to conduct research on topics related to development or global economic issues. During this time, scholars will prepare one or more papers that will be considered for publication in the WIDER working paper series and present a seminar in their field of research.

Applicants should hold a PhD in economics or a development-related discipline. Preference may be given to female candidates or applicants from developing countries. Applicants whose research overlaps with the institute's current research programme are given priority, but proposals on all aspects of development are considered.

All scholars receive a monthly stipend of €2,650 for travel, accommodation, medical and other out-of-pocket expenses. Scholars from developing countries may also apply for supplementary grants to cover the high travel costs.

Closing date: 30 Sep 15

Deadline information: Applications are invited between 1 September and 11.59pm EET, 30 September 2015. This call is repeated once a year.
