SUMMER WORKSHOP ON INTERNATIONAL ORGANIZATION STUDIES Academic Council of the United Nations System

Description:

The Academic Council on the United Nations System and the American Society of International Law in co-operation with the Geneva Centre for Security Policy invite applications for their summer workshop on international organization studies. The workshop seeks to: develop a specialized knowledge base on the challenges of war-torn societies; gain specific new methodological tools for analysis and assessment; explore the possibilities, and limits, of international engagement to ameliorate deep social divisions, and a critical evaluation of the role of the United Nations in conflict prevention, peacemaking, and peacebuilding.

The workshop is designed for junior professors in international relations, international law or other relevant disciplines, post-doctoral and advanced doctoral level students, young lawyers and practitioners from civil society groups, policy staff from international organizations, and others at similarly early stages of their professional careers. There are no nationality restrictions.

Participants will receive economy return air travel between their locations and the workshop site, accommodation, and some meals.

TWAS-AAS-MICROSOFT GRANTS FOR MEETINGS IN COMPUTER SCIENCE HELD IN AFRICAN COUNTRIES

Academy of Sciences for the Developing World (formerly Third World Academy of Sciences)

Description:

The Academy of Sciences for the Developing World, in collaboration with Microsoft Research and the African Academy of Sciences, invites applications for the TWAS-AAS-Microsoft grants for meetings in computer science held in African countries. These encourage the organisation of scientific activities in the field of computer science in Africa by offering financial assistance to the organisers of conferences, workshops, symposia and special meetings held in Africa. Principal speakers from abroad or participants from developing countries other than the country where the meeting is held are eligible for travel grants. Supported speakers should be from not-for-profit research organisations. Applications must be made by the organisers of international and regional scientific meetings being held in Africa and must show a matching financial contribution from local authorities. Grants will not exceed 4,000 euros.

C O-SPONSORED EVENTS AWARDS American Society for Theatre Research

Description:

The American Society for Theatre Research invites applications for its co-sponsored events awards. The aims are to: fulfill ASTR's purpose through collaboration with other organizations and institutions, foster closer relationships with cognate organizations or projects and increase the visibility of the work of both ASTR, and the award recipient within a wider professional context.

Applications may come from individuals, organizations, institutions or a combination, and will be considered from any nation. Co-sponsored events receive the endorsement of ASTR; however, ASTR is not able to offer organizational or administrative assistance to awardees. Events of regional, national or international significance in the format of conferences, colloquia, symposia and summits will be considered, provided that they align with ASTR's purpose.

Although applicants may apply for funds, the co-sponsorships will normally take the form of an endorsement without funding. In exceptional cases where monetary support is awarded, such support will be capped at $1,500, and applicants should emphasize forms of in-kind support.

Closing date: 01 Mar 12

Deadline information: Deadlines on: 1 March 2012, 1 October 2012, and repeated annually.

GENDER INSTITUTE: GENDER, CULTURES, POLITICS AND FUNDAMENTALISM IN AFRICA
Council for the Development of Social Science Research (CODESRIA)

Description:

The Council for the Development of Social Science Research invites applications for its gender institute under the theme gender cultures, politics and fundamentalism in Africa. The institute aims to strengthen the integration of gender analysis into social science research in Africa and encourage the emergence of a community of researchers in the field of gender studies. Activities will focus on two parts:

- concepts and methodological tools in women and gender studies;
- debates from a gender perspective on issues related to the theme: gender, cultures and Fundamentalisms.

Senior scholars or researchers in their mid-careers who have published extensively on the topic may apply for a role as resource persons. Master's or PhD students in the early stage of their careers and intellectuals active in the policy process or social movements and civil society organisations are encouraged to apply as laureates. A total of 12 to 15 researchers will be able to attend the event for a duration of three weeks.

NNOVATION RESEARCH INCENTIVES SCHEME VICI AWARDS

Netherlands Organisation for Scientific Research - NWO

Description:

The Netherlands Organisation for Scientific Research (NWO) invites applications for its innovation research incentives scheme vici awards. These grants are for excellent senior researchers who have shown that they have the ability to successfully develop their own innovative lines of research and to act as coaches for young researchers.

Vici candidates can submit proposals in the period beginning eight years and ending 15 years after they received their doctorates, calculated from the date on which the doctorate was formally awarded to the deadline for the submission of pre-proposals in the relevant round.

Applications may be submitted by candidates with or without a permanent contract of employment, irrespective of geographical origin. Appointments must be realised at one of the prospective host research institutions based in the Netherlands.

The annual budget for veni, vidi and vici awards is €150 million. An applicant for a vici grant may be funded with up to €1.5m over a period of five years. All applications must be submitted in English.

SUMMER WORKSHOP ON INTERNATIONAL ORGANIZATION STUDIES

Academic Council of the United Nations System

Description:

The Academic Council on the United Nations System and the American Society of International Law in co-operation with the United Nations University Institute for Water,

Environment and Health invite applications for their summer workshop on international organization studies. The theme for 2012 is water, environment and health: addressing knowledge, capacity and governance challenges.

The workshop seeks to support participants in developing a specialized knowledge base while gaining specific new methodological tools for analysis and assessment through the cross-fertilization of several disciplines and the sharing of ideas and experiences between scholars and practitioners. Topics include:

- international water law;
- international organizations and governance;
- the content and role of sustainability science;
- the effective articulation and communication of scientific research on water, environment and health to relevant national and international policy communities, non-scientific scholars and the media;
- the global, national and local challenges of capacity building, knowledge enhancement and research-to-policy dialogue around issues of water and gender, water and local cooperation/conflict, water scarcity and livelihoods, water and economic health, and the nexus of water, energy and food.

The workshop is designed for junior professors, postdoctoral and advanced doctoral level students in international relations, international law and other scholarly disciplines relevant to the workshop's theme. Young lawyers, practitioners from civil society groups, policy staff from international organizations and national governments or agencies working in related fields are also encouraged to apply. There are no nationality restrictions.
